CITY police today ordered 3.2 per cent beer out of Hope, and information to The Star is that local stocks of the beverage will be withdrawn without further argument. It is recalled that this newspaper on May 25 reported the open selling of beer, and recommended that the city government either license or suppress it. Whatever the decision, it made no difference to us. It is the business of a newspaper to report the real situation—and let the law "legalize" it the best way it can. A little more honesty on the part of newspapers and all citizens would have brought the 18th amendment to a show-down years ago.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The government spent approximately $1,760,353,305 more than it collected in the fiscal year which ended Friday.

There was slight comfort, perhaps, in the fact that the deficit was smaller than that shown for the 12 months which ended a year ago.

It had reached then the formidable total of $2,685,000,000 but the $1,760,353,305 shown Friday overshadowed the deficit two years ago which was $903,000,000.

For all the talk of budget balancing, speeches without number on the subject and additional taxes, the treasury outgo has exceeded income for three consecutive fiscal years.

In that period the public debt has mounted to approximately $22,000,000,000 the nearest approach to the peak of $26,596,701,684 since the year 1923. The high point was August 31, 1919. It compared to a pre-war debt on March 31, 1917, of $1,282,044,346, or less than the deficit for the present year.

The government, however, is hopeful that it will finally bring its budget into line before next June 30.

regular running expenses. Administration officials say they will hit the mark.

First to be hard hit is, naturally, personnel. There is the 15 per cent wage cut, already in effect three months. Then, hundreds of dismissals are being effected, while in other hundreds of cases, the workers, though retained, will suffer additional pay cuts by imposition of furloughs.

One Wage-Earner to Family

Among those persons being dropped are employees of 30 years or more service, who have been made eligible for pensions, men or women whose husbands or wives also hold government jobs, and that great class whose services are no longer deemed necessary because their work has been terminated or curtailed.

What the removals ultimately will total, no one is in position to say. Of the 10 executive departments, war alone is preparing to go alone as is in Washington.

Even the war department faces some application of payless leave in the capital and reduction of civilian work outside.

In the commerce department, the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce is being cut to the bone, and in the famed bureau of standards, 380 employees, most of them scientists of well-established reputations, are losing out.

Treasury Drops 600

In the treasury, 600 employees of the bureau of internal revenue go, along with 1500 enlisted men and 150 warrant officers of the coast guard, 500 from the public health service and 200 from the industrial alcohol bureaus.

In the interior department, there will be several hundred less jobs; in the department of justice, 1700 fewer, including 1300 prohibition workers. The navy, on June 1, dropped 203 departmental workers. It is eliminating more from other navy activities.

Paradoxically, with hundreds of millions going for farm relief through other avenues, the department of agriculture expects to have to use every possible means of saving to keep within its budget.

The state department will lose a handful of its workers, while post office and labor hope to get by through the medium of furloughs.

Roscoe Turner Is Ahead of Record in U. S. Air Derby

Three of Six Entrants Crack Up and Quit the Race

HOLDS RECORD NOW

Turner Made It From Coast to Coast in 12½ Hours

By the Associated Press

Roscoe Turner was beating his own record time across the country Saturday in a $12,000 air derby which in its early hours was marked by tragedy.

As Russell Boardman lay critically injured in an Indianapolis hospital after crashing in an attempted take-off there, Turner burned his way across the skies and landed at Albuquerque, N. M., at 12:29 EST (11:29 a. m., Hope time), only 8 hours 42 minutes out of New York.

His present record, set last year, for the coast-to-coast flight, is 12 hours 33 minutes.

By the Associated Press

A trans-continental air race from New York to Los Angeles was marked by tragedy Saturday; but the race went on, and at the leaders' half-way point it seemed a new cross-country record might be established.

Five men and one woman started the race, a feature of the national air races which are opening in Los Angeles Saturday.

Saturday afternoon one contestant was in a hospital with critical injuries after a crash, and two others were definitely out of the race.

The other two men and the woman pressed on.

Amelia Earhart, the only woman in the race, who was the first to start, made a stop for fuel at St. Louis.

Russell Boardman refueled at Indianapolis but crashed on the takeoff and suffered injuries which may prove fatal.

Russell Thaw reached Indianapolis, but injured a wing of his plane and dropped out.

Lee Gehlbach, forced down in a field outside Indianapolis, ran through a fence but was uninjured. He dropped out of the race.

Roscoe Turner passed the half-way mark at Wichita, Kan., a little more than six hours after the takeoff, at 3:49 o'clock Saturday morning.

Texan Appears Before Grand Jury in Probe of Beer Bribery

MARSHALL, Texas.—(AP)—Rather than be held in contempt of court, Sybil Parker, editor of the Longview Daily News, appeared in court Friday and gave the names of five persons he said could testify concerning alleged bribery in connection with the transportation of 3.2 per cent beer through Harrison county.

Judge Reuben Hall at a previous hearing had ordered Parker to reveal the sources of information on which he based a story alleging the beer was transported. The court had implied that Parker might be sentenced to jail for a day or two if he declined to reveal the information.

Solons to Offer Bond Compromise

Latest Proposal Would Turn Over Whatever Money State Has

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The suggestion that the 1933 bond refunding program be substituted with a plan whereby all available highway revenues will be applied on the interest requirements of the $146,000,000 bonds outstanding has been made to Governor Futrell by a group of legislators.

As revealed by one of the sponsors of the plan, it would not be a refunding program, but would be the state's means of saving to its creditors.

"We are not now in position to pay you the amount of principal and interest due, but here is all the money we have. We are willing to pay you all we have."

The practical effect of the suggestion this year, if put into effect by a special legislative session, would be to give the holders of bonds an average annual interest payment of about three per cent on their holdings. The state would ask its creditors to

25 Italian Planes on Hop to Chicago

One Capsizes Finishing First Jump to Amsterdam, Holland

AMSTERDAM, Holland.—(AP)—When General Italo Balbo brought his 25 seaplanes to Amsterdam Saturday, completing the first leg of a projected flight from Italy to Chicago's World Fair, one of the planes capsized in landing.

Shortly after the accident it was reported that one man was missing, but this was subsequently denied by the Italian authorities.

Three of the four men in the overturned ship were injured.

They Take Off

ORBETELLO, Italy.—(AP)—Twenty-five powerful seaplanes roared away from Orbetello at 5:45 a. m. Saturday (10:45 p. m. Friday, Hope time), carrying Air Minister Italo Balbo and 100 of his crack Fascist fliers on the first leg of a 6,100-mile cruise to Chicago. The first scheduled stop is Amsterdam.

The twin-cabined, multi-motored Savoia-Marchetti took off in rapid succession from the lagoon fronting the High Seas Navigation School. General Balbo and his group of three planes was first in the air. The remainder then took off in groups of three.

After leaving the lagoon here and gaining altitude, the planes dropped into formation in the air and swooped away to the northwest.

Only an overnight stop is planned at Amsterdam. Saturday morning, if everything goes well, the squadron will continue to Londonderry, North Ireland—a distance of 650 miles.

The rest of the route is as follows: Londonderry to Reykjavik, Iceland—930 miles.

Reykjavik to Cartwright, on Sandwich Bay, Labrador—1,500 miles.

Cartwright to Shadac—800 miles.

Shadac to Montreal—500 miles.

Montreal to Chicago—870 miles.

Studebaker Head Commits Suicide

A. R. Erskine Shoots Himself—Firm in Receivership

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(AP)—Albert Russell Erskine, 62, former president of the Studebaker corporation, committed suicide at his home here shortly before noon Saturday.

Erskine shot himself through the heart. His body was found a short time later by his adopted son, Albert Russell Erskine, Jr.

Kiwanis Observes Birthday of Club

Anniversaries of Club and John P. Cox Celebrated Jointly

Celebrating the fifth anniversary of the Hope Kiwanis club, members of the civic group entertained their wives and guests with a chicken barbecue picnic dinner at Fair Park Friday night for one of the greatest meetings in the history of the local club.

The Rev. Wallace R. Rogers paid tribute to the fellowship existing in the Kiwanis club, and for the part the club had played in the life of Hope and Hempstead county during the five years of its existence. He bespoke many more happy birthdays for the club, and increasing its usefulness to the community.

A report of work of the club in Hope, the clubs in the Southwest Arkansas district, and the International Kiwanis convention which closed in Los Angeles, was given by the Rev. Geo. F. X. Strasser, club secretary, and lieutenant governor of this Kiwanis district.

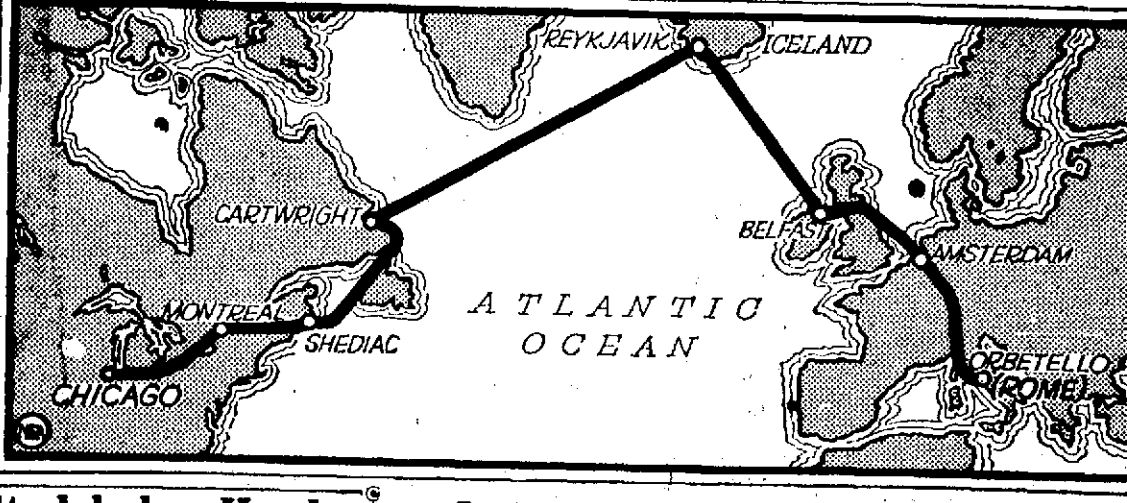

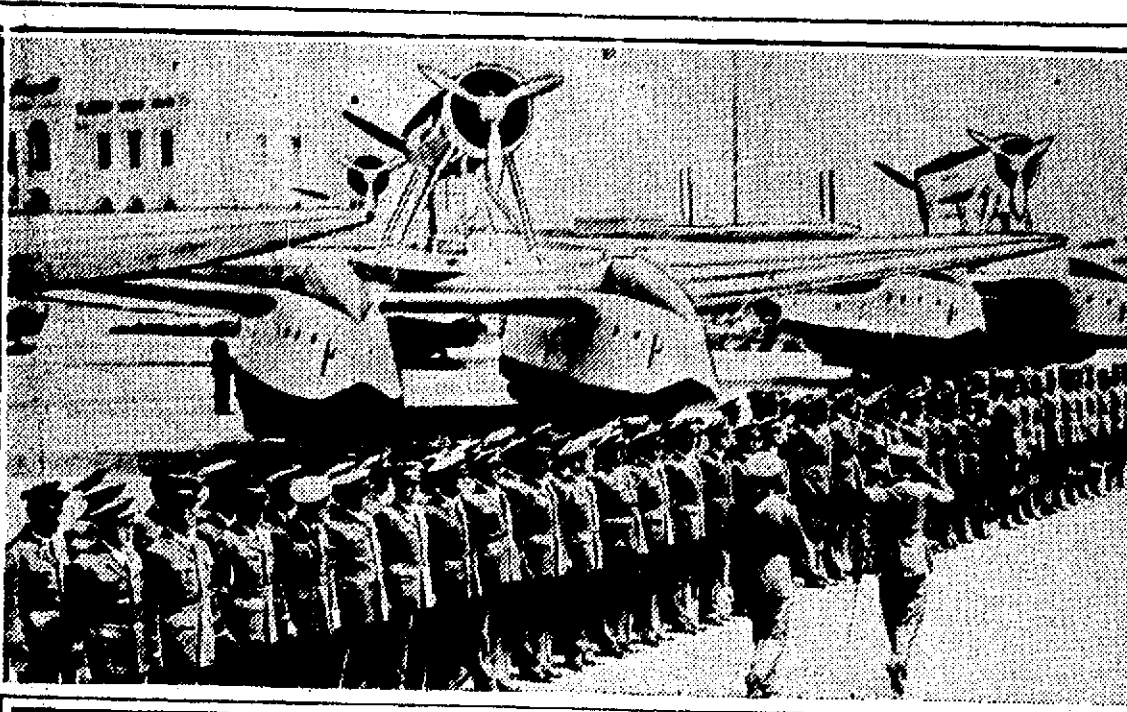

John P. Cox served as toastmaster in an entertaining manner. John Ridgill's string band furnished the music. Dewey Hendrix and Sid Bundy assisted Mr. Cox in arrangements for the birthday party and barbecue.

A surprise announcement was made to the effect that Friday was also the birthday of Toastmaster Cox. The club paid tribute to his valued service in Kiwanis, as a business man and a citizen.

About sixty-five club members, Kiwaniqueans, and guests attended. They were:

Chief Baker Gives Notice Selling in Hope Must Stop

He Says Law Shall Be Enforced Until It Is Repealed

STOCKS CLOSE OUT

Last Few Iced Bottles "Bargain" at 17½ Cents Apiece

Three-point-two beer, which has been sold openly in Hope for the last month and a half, and more recently appeared on the bill-of-fare of downtown restaurants, was ordered out of the city Saturday by Chief of Police Clarence E. Baker.

Chief Baker told The Star he was giving notice that the beer trade must be discontinued at once—selling which he would promptly raid suspected places and obtain evidence for prosecution.

Chief Baker's Statement

His statement follows: "Reports have been made to me that 3.2 per cent beer is being sold openly in Hope.

"I have no personal information on this matter, but the sale of beer of any alcoholic content is prohibited by state law and city ordinance, and the law will have to be enforced in accordance with the oath I took as chief of police.

"Each officer has been instructed, and any citizen knowing of sales of beer should report same to the police. "Effective immediately the police have been instructed to arrest any person transporting or selling 3.2 per cent beer or any other kind of alcoholic beer in this city."

It began May 25. Open selling of beer in Hope was first told by The Star May 15, followed by a second story May 16. On the third day, May 17, Prosecuting Attorney Millard Alford announced that he would padlock any place of business on which complaint was filed for beer sales.

There were no arrests, and the traffic spread over the downtown district, until half past five, when unknown brands of beer were being served in regular restaurant menus along with gooseberry, ham, cheese and other cold plate lunches. Business was thriving—and Chief Baker's announcement, rumored in advance Friday night, came as a bombshell.

The first effect was to run the price down from 25 cents, one emporium soliciting customers for a quick sale of its stock at 17½ cents.

The official action taken against the beer traffic in this case prior to Chief Baker's announcement was the arrest of two local business men by the Lafayette county sheriff, June 4 and 5. In both instances the men were carrying beer in private automobiles from the Louisiana line to Hope, and were arrested while coming through Lewisville.

They were the only arrests made by Lafayette authorities up to that time, although truckloads of beer continued to pour into the city and were apparently undisturbed.

Wholesalers Get 'Em

Local beer-sellers quit trying to run beer on their own account. The Star was informed after these arrests, and resumed their purchases from trucks.

Neither of the two accused Hope men have been brought to trial.

How the beer trucks are operating, has not been learned by The Star except that many of the trucks are said to be consignment-papers purporting to show they are engaged in making a haul through the state to west territory. The trucks either make drop-consignments along the way, or dump a complete cargo here and return home, so the story goes.

Officers complain that the public is not treating them fairly, the public evidently demanding beer, yet the officers being sworn to uphold the strict letter of the law until it is repealed.

If Arkansas votes for repeal of the 18th amendment on July 18 Governor Futrell will call a special session of the legislature to amend the state bone-dry law to permit sale of beer—but at least until then Chief Baker says beer is "out."

Mr. O'Neal presided over the meeting.

First 1,000 Acres Are Pledged Here

Signing of Contracts Proceeding Briskly in Hempstead County

Up to press time Saturday 75 farmers of Hempstead county, farming 2,473 acres of cotton, have offered 1,042 acres for abandonment under the two plans of acreage reduction, according to Frank Stanley, emergency agriculturalist.

The rising price of cotton, going above 10 cents on the central markets, is due largely to the campaign for reduced cotton production this year.

If not enough acres are secured in this campaign to reduce the 1933 crop between 2 and 3 million bales, Secretary Wallace will declare the plan in effect. The only possible result from such action would be a declining price of cotton. Perhaps some farmers, since the price of cotton is higher than it has been since 1930, might be reluctant to co-operate in the reduction program.

It is a fairly certain fact that if the acreage campaign is not successful in obtaining 10 or more million acres of growing cotton for abandonment, farmers will again see marketing conditions such as they experienced last fall, states T. Roy Reid, assistant Extension director.

"Farmers who have not had an opportunity of attending our community meetings or have not secured contracts of agreement may get them from my office," states Mr. Stanley, "or at the following locations:

MacLellan Fired by Highway Bureau

Too Much Conversation Laid to Maintenance Supervisor, Job Abolished

LITTLE ROCK—A. MacLellan, supervisor of maintenance for the state Highway Department for the past five months was dismissed by the Highway Commission Friday, three days after the Pulaski county grand jury had reported that it had "evidence that one employee of the state Highway Department devotes much of his time to spreading false rumors about the private lives of public officials who refuse to accede to his demands, or who have the temerity to disagree with the policies of his political bosses."

While the grand jury's report did not mention him by name, it was known generally that MacLellan was the employee referred to. He appeared before the grand jury two weeks ago, but the nature of his testimony was not made public.

A spokesman for the Highway Commission, however, said that the grand jury report had nothing to do with MacLellan's dismissal, as he had been slated to go for some time, for other reasons, but was given another opportunity after having been questioned by the commission a month ago. It has been indicated previously that friction has existed between MacLellan and other Highway Department officials since the department was reorganized under an act of the 1933 legislature.

A member of the commission said the place vacated by MacLellan will not be filled, and that James R. Rhyme, director of highways, will take over the duties of supervising maintenance operations, in addition to his other work. Before the appointment of Rhyme as director of highways, MacLellan was said to have been in line for that position until strong opposition developed. Protests against his selection were said to have been made to the highway commission then.

MacLellan, a Canadian veteran of the World war, formerly was employed by Warren Bros., manufacturers of a patented asphaltic surfacing preparation, as a construction supervisor, and later was employed as construction foreman for the Hogan Construction Company of Little Rock. He was employed for a short time as an investigator for the state Highway Audit Commission, which completed a five-year audit of the Highway Department last January.

Answers N. P. O'Neal Editor The Star: As a former citizen of Hope and a subscriber to your paper, I should like to reply to some of the statements made by Mr. N. P. O'Neal in his articles appearing in recent issues of the Hope Star.

First, get this: I have always been a prohibitionist. Never in my life have I cast a wet vote. But I am heartily in favor of repealing the 18th amendment because I believe it has become the most colossal failure ever written into our statutes.

Mr. O'Neal seems to take the view that repealment means the return of open saloons. He appears to lose sight of the fact that a state can vote for repeal and still retain its dry laws. Arkansas came nearer achieving real prohibition under its own bone-dry law than it ever has since the adoption of the 18th amendment.

I should like to ask Mr. O'Neal how many whisky stills were raided in Hempstead county from 1900 until the 18th amendment became a law. I should like to ask him how many stills have been raided since. A perusal of the records would doubtless astound him.

Mr. O'Neal asks us to remember how, in the days of open saloons, a man could ask his city-bound neighbor to bring back a quart or a gallon of whisky. Couldn't the same favor be asked today? It could; but under our present wonderful system of prohibition such a request is no longer necessary. A man can buy all the whisky he wants in his own back yard, and more than likely from his neighbor.

Mr. O'Neal refers to an occasion when a bull game in which he participated turned into a fiasco because some of the players indulged in a spree. The same thing could happen today. I daresay enough whisky could be bought in Hope any day to intoxicate every ball player in Hempstead county if they could be induced to drink it.

Mr. O'Neal boasts about the number of liquor-law violators who have been sent to penal institutions in Hempstead county, and goes on to say that these criminals represent the type of citizen who will engage in the whisky business if it is again legalized. This statement proves that Mr. O'Neal doesn't always give serious thought to his utterances, and should evoke the ire of some of the foremost citizens of Hope, descendants and relatives of former saloon keepers.

The average saloon man of the old days was a decent fellow. His place of business was conducted on a high plane compared to modern speakeries. He contributed liberally to charity; he was a booster for his town and community, and he PAID TAXES. Can the same be said in defense of present-day bootleggers?

Mr. O'Neal should realize by this time that morals cannot be legislated into the hearts of people. The only way to eradicate the drinking evil is to educate our people to let it alone. Once this is accomplished the whisky question will die of its own inertia. Then, and not until then may we expect the rest of the world to pay any attention to the raucous screams we emit in proclaiming ourselves leaders in a noble crusade.

MacLellan Fired by Highway Bureau

Too Much Conversation Laid to Maintenance Supervisor, Job Abolished

LITTLE ROCK—A. MacLellan, supervisor of maintenance for the state Highway Department for the past five months was dismissed by the Highway Commission Friday, three days after the Pulaski county grand jury had reported that it had "evidence that one employee of the state Highway Department devotes much of his time to spreading false rumors about the private lives of public officials who refuse to accede to his demands, or who have the temerity to disagree with the policies of his political bosses."

While the grand jury's report did not mention him by name, it was known generally that MacLellan was the employee referred to. He appeared before the grand jury two weeks ago, but the nature of his testimony was not made public.

A spokesman for the Highway Commission, however, said that the grand jury report had nothing to do with MacLellan's dismissal, as he had been slated to go for some time, for other reasons, but was given another opportunity after having been questioned by the commission a month ago. It has been indicated previously that friction has existed between MacLellan and other Highway Department officials since the department was reorganized under an act of the 1933 legislature.

A member of the commission said the place vacated by MacLellan will not be filled, and that James R. Rhyme, director of highways, will take over the duties of supervising maintenance operations, in addition to his other work. Before the appointment of Rhyme as director of highways, MacLellan was said to have been in line for that position until strong opposition developed. Protests against his selection were said to have been made to the highway commission then.

MacLellan, a Canadian veteran of the World war, formerly was employed by Warren Bros., manufacturers of a patented asphaltic surfacing preparation, as a construction supervisor, and later was employed as construction foreman for the Hogan Construction Company of Little Rock. He was employed for a short time as an investigator for the state Highway Audit Commission, which completed a five-year audit of the Highway Department last January.

NEW YORK (AP) - Suppose that during a delicate surgical operation, the surgeon should die?

Arnold Javitz, 32 years old and suffering from spinal meningitis, was taken to the operating room of the Park East hospital, Thursday. His condition was grave and the operation a delicate one.

Present, in addition to nurses, were Doctors Arthur Shifrin, Aaron Goldblatt and Michael Mislis.

Dr. Goldblatt administered the anesthetic. Dr. Shifrin handled the needle. Dr. Mislis held the tube into which fluid from the spinal column was drawn.

The needle had been inserted. The operation was under way. Seconds were precious.

Dr. Mislis staggered. He clutched his breast, and whispered: "My heart!"

A nurse caught him as he started to fall. His weight was too great. Both dropped to the floor.

On the operating table, unconscious from the anesthetic, lay a boy critically ill. Beside the table, on the floor, lay the 56-year-old surgeon who had been taking part in the operation.

The hands of the surgeon holding the needle continued to move surely. The medical skill of the other doctor concentrated on the patient's reaction to the anesthetic. A nurse functioned smoothly, expertly.

At last it was done. Friday, it was pronounced successful.

When the two surgeons bent over Dr. Mislis, joining others who had been summoned, they found him dead.
